User story for Sarah:

- As a sales manager, Sarah wants to be able to see population information for countries and cities, so that she can identify potential target markets for her products.

- As a sales manager, Sarah wants to be able to filter population information by income level, so that she can identify potential target markets based on purchasing power.

- As a sales manager, Sarah wants to be able to export population information to create reports for her company's management team.